

Blended Learning: Useful websites

GCSE Bitesize: Videos, quizzes and fun on most secondary level subjects as well as weekly news updates.

<https://www.bbc.com/education/levels/z98jmp3>

CBBC Newsround: Videos for a weekly news summary and mini documentaries on a variety of topics to suit different subjects.

<http://www.bbc.co.uk/newsround>

Jigsaw planet: Upload your own images or use those a bank to create jigsaws for pairs, or the class to complete in collaborative tasks.

<https://www.jigsawplanet.com/>

Quizlet: Create quizzes for pair and group work in any subject

<https://quizlet.com/latest>

One stop English: A multitude of resources for all subjects and levels, including weekly news lessons and CLIL specific material. Some is free, but if you pay for one subscription your school can use all of the resources.

<http://www.onestopenglish.com>

National geographic kids: A brilliant resource for social studies geography, and history students with videos, quizzes and articles.

<https://www.natgeokids.com/uk>

edmodo: A social network website for teachers, parents and students to communicate safely and transparently

<https://www.edmodo.com>

flocabulary: Contemporary rock, pop and rap songs written about a range of topics for students to listen to, sing along with 🎧 and learn!

<https://www.flocabulary.com>

kahoot: A game-based learning platform that makes learning awesome! (Their words – but it is good)

<https://kahoot.com>

Khan Academy: Games and activities for maths, science, engineering and technology

<https://www.khanacademy.org>

Kaizena: A homework/writing feedback tool

<https://kaizena.com>

Dvolver: Movie making website students can use for any subject

<http://www.dvolver.com/moviemaker/make.html>

Other websites suggested by my peers: