

UNIT 6: QUESTIONS

1. Are these sentences TRUE or FALSE?

- Today, industrial and agricultural products are often sold in places far away from where they are produced because transport is more efficient, faster and cheaper.
- Sea transport is the most popular for its ability to mobilise people and goods almost anywhere on the planet.
- Air transport is the most modern transport system, which is why big cities usually have an airport.
- The railway and steamship were introduced in the Second Industrial Revolution.
- The construction of some tourism infrastructure has damaged ecosystems, which are subjected to pollution, noise and a build-up of rubbish.

2. Draw a timeline on the history of transport and include the means of transport in the following images:

3. Do you prefer "beach holidays" or "mountain tourism"? Defend your argument.

4. Complete the gaps:

lower - destinations - American - Antiquity - grow - business - Italy - mass - billions - leisure

Tourism is a _____ phenomenon of _____ which moves and employs huge numbers of people around the world. The origins of tourism date back to _____, but it only became widespread in the 20th century.

International tourism has continued to _____ in recent years and already exceeds 1.4 _____ people. Visiting other countries is becoming easier because of _____ air transport fees, the internationalisation of current _____ models, and the ease of obtaining visas.

The main tourist _____ are found on the _____ and European continents. Among the most visited countries are France, Spain, the United States, _____, and China.